

12/08/2005
FOXSports.com

by Peter Schrager / FOXSports.com

Aside from beating Iron Mike in the Nintendo game Mike Tyson's Punchout and sitting through Major League 3: Back to the Minors, buying another guy a gift for the holidays may be the most difficult task in the world.

Buying the right gift can make you a hero. Buying the wrong gift can make you a total chump. Of course, there are consequences. The guy-to-guy gift can't be too sentimental then things get weird. It can't be too common then you're considered lazy. The ideal gift for a buddy should be clever, well thought out, and involve some sort of inside joke. In a perfect world, the present is somehow sports-related as well.

We want you to succeed on your mission this year.

Here are some suggestions:

For your buddy ... who always wanted to be Ace or Maverick:

<http://www.wallbounce.com/experience.cfm?pid=64>

Simulated air combat in T-34 mentor military airplane experience $800.00
www.wallbounce.com