I'd been feeling really blah lately! Everything seemed so routine: lather, rinse, repeat. I wanted to find ways to explore some new activities, but it seemed like it would take too much energy to even think about how to do that.

Luckily, a friend introduced me to Wallbounce. We were catching up over tea one night and she happened to mention it. I had never heard of it, so she told me more: Wallbounce is a provider of "discerning learning" experiences, from lectures and speakers to outright adventures!

All you have to do is register (for FREE) with Wallbounce, and you get updates about events in your area and around the globe. Wallbounce provides tickets to these events and fixed price offers on these opportunities, which range from exclusive chocolate tastings to Chilean Whitewater Rafting excursions!
